BIG DAY FULL OF SNAP.

THE VOICE OF THE FIRECRACKER HEARD THROUGHOUT THE LAND.

Young and Old America Celebrate the Birthday of the Nation With a Fervor Unsurpassed in a Hundred Years.

Quietest City in the Country Was the Capital, Except Chicago Where it Rained—Rochester Invites Foreign Troops to Lend Eclat—Hogg Versus Tiger in the Tammany Lair—Pacific Coast Enthusiasm.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
CHICAGO, July 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Fourth was celebrated throughout the East with patriotism and vigor. The day was universally given up to honoring the nation's birthday, and although in some portions of the Eastern States heavy rain fell nearly all day, it failed to greatly dampen the ardor of Young America.

Perhaps the most notable event of the day was the landing of three companies of foreign troops on American soil, fully armed, but with the national anthems of the foreign country on their lips. The arrival of the Fourteenth Battalion, the Princess of Wales's own rifles, from Kingston, Canada, marked the greatest celebration of the Fourth ever planned in Western New York. Other troops in the celebration were the Fifteenth Argyll Light Infantry of Belleville, and the Third Prince of Wales Dragoons of Peterborough. The Canadian soldiers came as guests of the city of Rochester.

James H. Hogg, the former Governor of Texas, exploded a bomb in Tammany celebration in New York, when he defied the Tiger's bosses and came out flatfooted for Bryan and 16 to 1. The Tammany celebration had for its prime motive the putting of a damper on Bryan's Presidential aspirations. Bryan's name was like an electric spark. It set off all the enthusiasm in the room.

President and Mrs. McKinley spent the Fourth mostly in their private apartments at the White House. Mrs. McKinley continues to improve slowly.

At Mansfield, O., Gen. Nelson A. Miles was the guest of John Sherman and was the orator of the day at the celebration. General and Mrs. Miles left tonight for Washington.

An enormous crowd listened to William J. Bryan at Barnesville, Ga. He closed his speech by taking a determined stand against expansion.

Congressman Champ Clark of Missouri made a notable speech at Lexington, Ky. He spoke in high commendation of President McKinley and his conduct of the war with Spain. Congressman Clark is one of the Democratic floor leaders of the House, and his words have been the topic of the day.

Chicago celebrated in a pouring rain, which soaked the fireworks. Gen. Thomas M. Anderson, late of Manila and San Francisco, was the principal orator of the day.

AT THE NATION'S CAPITAL.
Meetings of Patriotic Societies the Only Distinctive Feature.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]
WASHINGTON, July 4.—The day was observed at the national capital, but there was no distinctive celebration beyond the customary meetings of patriotic societies. The weather is ideal. President McKinley had no special plans for the day, and remained at the White House and observed the Fourth by a partial relief from active duties and by receiving only a few callers.
THE AMERICAN METROPOLIS.
Various Organizations Have Picnics and Tammany Has Talk.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]
NEW YORK, July 4.—Tammany Hall had its usual celebration and the New York Celtic Society, the employees of the Metropolitan Street Railway, the New York Letter Carriers' Association, and many other organizations held picnics near the city today. About seventy marines and sailors of the United States cruiser Brooklyn took a train for Plainfield, N. J., in the morning to participate in the Fourth of July celebration at that place. The casualties had begun as early as 8 o'clock in the morning, when John Heman, 12 years old, shot himself with a pistol. He was taken to a hospital in a serious condition.

OUR FOREIGN POSSESSIONS.
Havana Ablaze With Bunting—Police Surprised by Small Boys.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]
HAVANA, July 4.—[By West Indian Cable.] The streets of Havana are ablaze with bunting. Flags of all nations are flying, with American flags largely predominating and the Cuban colors a good second. The consulates are all flying their own flags. A majority of the business houses on Obispo and O'Reilly streets have, besides flags, other colored decorations, giving the city an animated appearance.

Two Spanish flags flung proudly above the Spanish Club, and though no store has laid in a supply of firecrackers, the American boys here are making their presence felt to the astonishment and wonder of the local police, who are asking instructions regarding arresting those found firing "bombs" in the street, the "bombs" being a few crackers obtained at Chinese stores.

OLD GLORY FLOATS IN NEARLY EVERY FOREIGN CAPITAL.
Americans Celebrate With Great Enthusiasm Everywhere—London Blossoms Out in Red, White and Blue and Many Business Houses Close Doors—Impressive Ceremonies at Delft.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]
LONDON, July 4.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Americans abroad are celebrating the Fourth with great enthusiasm. The American flag is displayed in nearly every capital of Europe. In Berlin many members of the American colony are starting on a special steamer for a picnic on the River Spree. There will be dancing and fireworks in the evening. The embassies in Berlin, Paris, Rome and other continental centers gave receptions. In London American flags were numerous, and many of the business houses closed and gave the employees a holiday.

ing the national colors. The guests included Sir William Collins, the Queen's master of ceremonies; Samuel T. Clemens and Mrs. Clemens; Senator and Mrs. Mark Hanna, Senator and Mrs. Dodge, and Mr. and Mrs. William Osborne.
The reception at the Choate residence was attended by 1500 persons, including many English people and a number of the leaders of the International Council of Women. Some boys of the United States training ship Monongahela, now at Plymouth, who were also present, attracted much attention. A band of music played on the terrace.
Among the guests were the Duchess of Marlborough, Lady William Beresford, Sir William Vernon Harcourt, Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, the Canadian High Commissioner; Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Parker; Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Crane; and Mrs. John Drew, Mrs. Ronald Mackay, Rider Haggard and Frank Leslie; Gen. Wheaton and Mrs. Wheaton; W. G. Choate and Admiral Mrs. Kinkaid.

AT PLYMOUTH, ENGLAND.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]
PLYMOUTH, (Eng.) July 4.—The presence here today of the United States training ship Monongahela was the occasion for an interesting ceremony in the harbor at noon. All the British warships were decorated with flags, and the American ensign was run up to the mastsheads and saluted with twenty-one guns, to which the Monongahela responded.

FATALITY AT PLYMOUTH.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
PLYMOUTH, (Eng.) July 4.—A fatality marred the naval celebration of the Fourth. When a signal boy ascended to the masthead of the British second-class cruiser, Arrogant, to clear the balyards from the Stars and Stripes, which had apparently become foul of some of the rigging, the lad fell to the ship's deck and was killed.

WREATH FOR GROTIUS.
Impressive Ceremonies at Delft in Which Our Ambassador Figures.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]
DELFT, (Holland), July 4.—[By Atlantic Cable.] There was a picturesque and impressive ceremony at the Nieuwe Kerk this morning. The church was filled with delegates, diplomats, high officials and ladies. The ceremony began with a chorus singing Mendelssohn's "How Lovely Are the Messengers Who Bring Us Good Tidings of Peace," after which A. P. C. van Karnebeek, the former Foreign Minister and head of the Dutch delegation to the Peace Conference, who presided at today's ceremony, briefly outlined its nature. He said:

"Nowhere has the conference met with heartier sympathy than in the United States, and it is a token of this feeling and acknowledgement of the reception of the conference by The Netherlands that the American delegates, in the name of their government, desire to pay tribute to the memory of Hugo Grotius. In order to give this additional significance, they have chosen for its complement their great national feast day."
After the national hymn of The Netherlands had been sung, Andrew D. White, United States Ambassador to Germany, and head of the American delegation to the Peace Conference, in a long, scholarly address, paid an eloquent tribute to Grotius "to carry out whose ideas are assembled delegates from all nations." Mr. White added:

"I feel that my own country unites not only in her gratitude, but in that of the civilized world."
After tracing Grotius's work and the effect of his ideas, Mr. White said: "From this tomb of Grotius, I seem to hear a message to go on with the work of strengthening peace and humanizing war and, above all, to give to the world at least a beginning of an effective, practical scheme of arbitration."
At the end of his address Mr. White laid on the tomb of Grotius, in behalf of his colleagues, a wreath of silver laurel leaves, bearing the inscription: "To the memory of Hugo Grotius, on the occasion of the Peace Conference at The Hague, in reverence and gratitude from the United States."

The wreath was three feet in diameter and was in a big beech case, ornamented with silver, bearing the inscription: "To the government of the Netherlands, from the United States on the occasion of the conference, 1899." The names of the delegates to the Peace Conference follow.
The address of acceptance was made by Dr. W. H. de Beaufort, the Minister of Foreign Affairs and president of the Ministerial Council of The Netherlands. He said:
"Today's ceremony will make a deep impression throughout the country. We Hollanders are proud of our memory of our great men. We are pleased to see them appreciated by foreigners and the citizens of our country for whom we have such respect and regard. We are closely connected with the historical traditions of America. The first settlers on the banks of the Hudson were Hollanders, and we shall always remember with a certain pride that it was a Dutch captain who first saluted the Stars and Stripes. Today we salute your spangled banner in our country. Your country is one of the largest in the world; ours is one of the smallest; but we have one thing in common, which is that we both won our country and its independence by our valor."
In conclusion, Dr. de Beaufort said he hoped today's ceremony and wreath would act as a stimulus to future generations in their exertions in behalf of still further reforms in international law, and that the wreath would be an everlasting emblem of the historical friendship of America and Holland.

President Seth Low of Columbia University, a delegate to the conference, in returning thanks, said: "We do not make light of what we owe to England, but we gladly recognize that we owe in a large measure to the Dutch many of the things which we count as most precious in our heritage."
The ceremony concluded with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner."

THE DAY IN BOHEMIA.
Minister Harris Dines Americans—A Fractious Automobile.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]
MARIENBAD, (Bohemia), July 4.—Addison C. Harris, the United States Minister to Austria-Hungary, and Mrs. Harris, dined a number of Americans today in honor of the Fourth.
The Duke of Orleans, pretender to the French throne, who is taking the water cure here with his wife, created a great diversion during the day with the first automobile seen here. He succeeded in getting his machine on the sidewalk and ran down an old woman.

DAY AT PARIS.
Grand Reception and Banquet—The President's Discharge.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
PARIS, July 4.—[By Atlantic Cable.] There was a grand reception at the United States Embassy here tonight, which was attended by nearly the whole American colony. The annual banquet of the American Chamber of Commerce at the Grand Hotel, today, was a great success, which was due largely to the presence of many distinguished Americans.
Mr. Pearce read the following dispatch which he had just received from President McKinley: "I have the honor to acknowledge your good wishes, and hope our cordial relations with France may endure and become stronger year by year."

DEMONSTRATION AT MANILA.
Everybody Takes Part in the "Fiesta of North America."
[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.]
MANILA, July 4.—[By Manila Cable.] There was a great celebration of the Fourth here today, fireworks, speeches and decorations everywhere. All nationalities participating. The foreign ships at anchor, including the Spanish, raised their colors in conjunction with the Stars and Stripes. The flagship Baltimore fired a national salute at noon.
All nationalities enjoyed what the Spanish newspapers termed the "Fiesta of North America." Newsboys shouted Fourth of July editions, soldiers paraded the town, throwing firecrackers and decorations everywhere. All nationalities participating. The foreign ships at anchor, including the Spanish, raised their colors in conjunction with the Stars and Stripes. The flagship Baltimore fired a national salute at noon.
Several hundred boys and girls, Filipino Spaniards and children from the public schools, dressed in their best clothes, each carrying an American flag, sang "America." In a military band, Chaplain Knudsen of the Washington regiment read the Declaration of Independence. The officers of the United States cruiser gave a reception and dinner which was attended by the foreign consuls, and all the society of the army and navy circles.
Col. Denby presided at the celebration at the Soldiers' Club, where O. E. Williams, United States Consul General, and others delivered addresses. The officers of the Colorado regiment gave a reception at the regimental barracks, and there were several dances during the evening. A great celebration at night was rendered impossible on account of the war.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
NEW YORK, July 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Sun's London cable says a declaration of immense importance regarding the fate of the Philippines and all Asia was made tonight by Cardinal Vaughn, Archbishop of Westminster, at the Independence day banquet given by the American society. There is good authority for saying that his utterances are the authorized announcement of the policy of the Roman Catholic church in the Far East. He astonished and electrified his audience by an eloquent appeal to America and England, in co-operation, to carry civilization by force into Asia in opposition to Russia. Nor was his the only imperialistic speech of the evening. Expansion was the keynote of every word spoken.

"You stand," he said, "with your foot on the threshold of the vast continent of Asia. You have entered into the comity of nations that has declared itself in many ways interested in the welfare and future of the Asiatic continent. The question that presents itself constantly to my mind—I do not know how it will strike your minds—is this: Which power, in the future of the world, shall be predominant over the great continents yet unreclaimed by Christian civilization? Shall it be the great despotic power that looms north of Asia, or shall it be the power of the liberty-loving nations represented by the English-speaking people? There can be no doubt in this hall to which the preference should be given.

"If then liberty-loving peoples are to bring happiness, civilization and all the benefits of Christianity to the largest majority of the human race yet uncivilized, it can only be, it seems to me, through a good understanding being established between the two

OSSE ON HIS TRAIL.

CAMP VERDE MURDERER MAY SOON BE CAUGHT.

Sheriff Sends Word to Prescott Concerning the Chase After What Seems to Be the Only Man Implicated.

Assassin's Conduct Much Like the Frank of a Lunatic, for He Rode Off at Once After the Killing.

Seminary at Irvington Burned. Faustino's Victim Dead—Filipino Wife Causes a Tragedy. Washington Suicide.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] PRESIDENT (Ariz.) July 4.—The Sheriff of this county sent word today that the possessor of the double murder at Camp Verde Sunday night. It turns out that there was only one man implicated in the tragedy. While it was thought the first man intended to rob the store, it now seems more like the Frank of a lunatic, as he mounted a horse and rode off as soon as the shooting was done.

The officers are confident of overtaking him today or tomorrow, unless he should succeed in getting a fresh horse.

MARKS'S WAYWARD WIFE.

Story of Love and Murder From Manila and Hongkong.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] SAN FRANCISCO, July 4.—The Occidental and Oriental Steamship Company's steamship Coptic, from Hongkong and way ports, brought a strange story of love, murder and suicide from the Orient. Andrew Marks of the city, who left for Manila about the time of the departure of the First California Regiment, is the principal in the case. Marks was married at Hongkong May 22 to Miss Marie Cyrille Terrade. One week later he killed the girl and then took his own life.

Marks, on arrival at Manila, opened a restaurant and did a very good business. He met his wife at the cafe and fell in love with her. He proposed marriage, but as the girl had promised to marry another man, a United States soldier, she answered her lover by saying that she could not safely marry him and live in the Philippines. Marks then proposed that they go to Hongkong. The girl accepted the proposal, and a few days later Marks sold out and the couple moved to the China shore.

Soon after arrival in Hongkong the couple were married and went to live at No. 15 Western street. Then, a few days after the ceremony, the bride deserted Marks, and for some time the man was searching vainly for the wayward woman. Many days he looked for her and persuaded her to return to rooms which he secured at No. 61 Queen's Road. While there they had a quarrel, and Mrs. Marks again suddenly disappeared, this time with a Hongkong merchant.

Marks succeeded in learning where the woman had taken lodgings, and forcing his way into the room, he accused her of desertion. Some words and a struggle followed. Marks drew a pistol and shot his wife in the breast and in the head. He then turned the pistol on himself and shot himself through the heart. When the police arrived, both were dead.

IT'S A FINE POINT.

Question Where Wade Should be Held for Trial.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] HONOLULU, June 27 (Wire from San Francisco, July 4).—The question raised by the United States Marshal for the Northern District of California as to the place where Wade, accused of killing Gillespie, while on the steamer Australia en route from Honolulu to San Francisco, should be tried, is receiving considerable attention among lawyers and others now. It is pointed out that if he is tried here, the question of his right to grand jury indictment and the unanimous verdict of the jury of twelve men may be raised in a different way than any in which it has yet been raised.

The Australia is an American vessel. She had cleared from this port and was actually at some distance from it when the shooting occurred. It is the opinion of some that the jurisdiction of the United States District Court at San Francisco is complete.

CURTNER SEMINARY BURNS.

Dormitories Were Saved and No One Was Hurt.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.] IRVINGTON, July 4.—The main building of the Curtner Young Ladies' Seminary was burned early this morning, entailing a loss of $30,000. The dormitories, which were in separate buildings, were saved.

The college, which was one of the oldest in the State, was the conditional gift of Henry Curtner to the Christian Church. Sixty young women have been in attendance, but this being vacation, only four people were in the building at the time of the fire, and all escaped safely.

The fire was caused by a defective flue in the kitchen chimney. When discovered by Principessa C. A. Ingraham the fire could have been readily extinguished if he had had hose and water supply.

The seminary was built in the early seventies, and for years was a school for both sexes, and known as Washington College.

He died on the way to the hospital. The suicide was a large and powerfully built man with gray hair and beard. He was about 65 years of age.

EPIDEMIC OF HOLD-UPS.

Washington Robbers Make Several Small Hauls.

A man on a bicycle was also held up, but ran and was not pursued. He returned with assistance, but the robbers had fled. Sunday Mr. Jackson, while out driving with a woman friend, was held up in the same locality and $11.50 was taken from him.

POMONA, July 4.—(Regular Correspondence.) The Fourth was celebrated here today with patriotic exercises at the Central school grounds, where a platform had been erected and decorated for the band and speakers, and seats provided for the people. Prof. F. H. Hyatt, president of the day, announced the programme. After the invocation by Rev. H. H. Rice, Dr. James P. Allen of Berkeley read the Declaration of Independence, and Rev. Dr. E. Chapman of Oakland was introduced as orator of the day. Dr. Chapman's subject was "Loyalty to the Flag." He is an able speaker, and dwelt upon national expansion in a broad and happy way, exhorting his hearers to stimulate and maintain the highest type of patriotism toward our constantly growing country. He made the close of his address the audience joined in singing the national hymn, and Rev. D. H. Gillan pronounced the benediction. The Pomona Band played several numbers during the programme, and gave a concert this afternoon. There were no public fireworks this evening, but a number of families had displays at their residences.

POMONA BREVIETTES.

Numerous picnic parties from Pomona spent the day in Stoddard, San Dimas and Every cañons.

Pomona Co., No. 24, U. R. E. P. went to China this morning to participate in the celebration being held there. The Pomona Aid picnic, today in Oak Grove, was well attended.

Lines & Baldwin of Los Angeles are testing numerous wells in this locality. Work is progressing rapidly on the large reservoir being built by N. C. Nevett at his ranch on East Holt avenue.

ANAHEIM.

Cannery Has a Narrow Escape from Burning Oil.

ANAHEIM, July 4.—(Regular Correspondence.) Leakage of oil in the engine-room at the cannery and the ignition of it last night by a spark came very near resulting in loss of life, as well as of property highly valuable at this time. The engine was stored within a few feet of it when the explosion occurred, and was scorched about the base, but not seriously. Prompt cutting off of the flow from the oil tank outside the building prevented disastrous results. The factory is now working 150 hours and turning out of fruit per day. The season has not yet fairly opened.

The Turners' picnic today drew quite a number of guests to the city to celebrate the Fourth. In the evening there was a fine display of fireworks. The day passed uneventfully otherwise.

BROOKSHIRE CALLS ON GOV. SAYERS FOR RELIEF IN VAIN.

Texas Executive Says He Has No Public Funds at His Disposal to Offer Relief—General Destruction to Property—Lives Feared to Be Lost.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] ST. LOUIS, July 4.—A special to the Post-Dispatch from Austin, Tex., says that Gov. Sayers received the following telegram from a number of prominent residents of Brookshire, a small town in Walter county on the Brazos River, about thirty miles from Houston:

"Hundreds of people here with everything swept away by flood, have not a mouthful to eat and no shelter. Unless food is sent at once, starvation is inevitable, and to you, as Governor of Texas, we appeal for immediate aid and food."

Gov. Sayers immediately replied by wiring the mayors of Houston, Galveston and San Antonio as follows: "Am just advised that hundreds of people are suffering at Brookshire for want of food. Have no public funds at my disposal. Please call on the people of your city to assist."

LIVES STREIBLY LOST.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] DALLAS (Tex.) July 4.—A bulletin from Dewey station on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas road, midway between Calvert and Houston, sent at noon, is as follows:

"There has been greatest destruction to general property in the vicinity of some lives have surely been lost. The Brazos River has been rising rapidly since yesterday. The water is now up to the stringers of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas bridge, a large and costly steel structure. Three miles of railroad track have gone since last night. Shortly after noon, all communication with Dewey was lost. It is believed the railroad bridge there went out."

MORE DISASTERS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] ST. LOUIS, July 4.—A special to the Republic from Dallas, Tex., says another flood disaster which, from the first bulletin received here tonight, appears to be worse than that at Calvert and Houston, occurred last night. Some lives have surely been lost. The Brazos River has been rising rapidly since yesterday. The water is now up to the stringers of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas bridge, a large and costly steel structure. Three miles of railroad track have gone since last night. Shortly after noon, all communication with Dewey was lost. It is believed the railroad bridge there went out."

RENNES, July 4.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Maitre Labori paid another visit to Capt. Dreyfus at 10 o'clock this morning, remaining with him until noon. The lawyer found that the prisoner appeared to be even better spirits than yesterday, and in the afternoon Dreyfus has shown to the frightful blow he suffered in the judgment of the court-martial and his terrible existence on Devil's Island, combined with his marvelous recuperation of physical and mental strength since he left Cayenne. Maitre Labori saw the strongest proofs of his innocence.

Counsel was almost joyful in appearance on leaving the military prison today, and beyond doubt, his interviews with Dreyfus have given him the most favorable impression respecting the subject of the court-martial. Dreyfus spent yesterday evening and this morning in studying the documents relating to the Esterhazy and Zola trials. Maitre Labori, during this morning's conference, explained to Dreyfus the secure points at many incidents, and at the attitude of various persons since his deportation.

When Maitre Labori will again visit him.

Bill Dealing With Workmen Before the House.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] PARIS, July 4.—[By Atlantic Cable.] In the Chamber of Deputies today Paul Beauregard, Republican, representing one of the districts of the Seine, submitted his promised interpellation on the subject of the bill dealing with workmen's wages and the hours of labor. He disputed the right of M. Millerand, Socialist, Minister of Commerce, to deal with the matter by decree, as he proposed to, until the next session. The speaker was loudly interrupted by members of the extreme Left.

M. Millerand, in replying, disclaimed all intentions upon the part of the government to curtail the rights of Parliament. Other delegates tried to debate the matter, but the Premier, M. Waldeck-Rousseau, declined to consent to a discussion of the matter until his 3:30 to 1:30 votes.

The Premier then read a decree adjourning Parliament for the long vacation, and amid applause of the Leftist and protests from the Right, the house adjourned.

CASTELLANE'S CONTEMPT.

He Expands a Little on the Prince of Monaco.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] PARIS, July 4.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Comte de Castellane, who married Miss Anna Gould, has addressed a communication to the Prince of Monaco, sharply criticizing the Prince for his recent letter to Mme. Dreyfus, inviting her and her husband to sojourn at his chateau after the prisoner's acquittal, of which the Prince expressed himself as confident. The Comte, who charges the Prince with "interfering in affairs in which you are in no way concerned," says: "If, as a foreign sovereign, you thought you could influence French officers in the grave verdict they are about to pronounce, I beg you to not that we don't stand on an equal footing, as none of us would condescend to call to account a Prince who is above all things a sovereign."

"You are, perhaps, a relative of Dreyfus by marriage, but in that case you are not a relative of the Republic. On the other hand, it is as a protector of gambling houses that you interfere, permit me to tell you that Dreyfus himself would dispense with your services."

DREYFUS'S CONDITION.

[RENNES, July 4.—It is impossible to imagine a town calmer than Rennes. The inhabitants continue absolutely indifferent to the presence of Dreyfus. Barely half a dozen persons witnessed the visits of Consul M. M. Dreyfus to the prison today. The town, however, is full of detectives, who scrutinize all strangers, and a few genarines are patrolling the streets as the residence of Mme. Dreyfus. They approach and watch everyone stopping before the gate leading to the courtyard of the mansion.

Matthew Dreyfus paid his first visit to his brother at 3 o'clock this morning. The interview lasting half an hour, the two brothers threw themselves into each other's arms. M. Dreyfus said that he found his brother aged and broken in health, but not the physical wreck he feared. In spite of his sufferings, Dreyfus was as bright, his mind as clear, and his intelligence as keen as when he was occupied with his duties on the general staff.

He was troubled with insomnia during the voyage, but has now recovered and last night he had a refreshing sleep. The prisoner is still suffering from dysentery, but it is slight, and there is every reason to believe that he will rapidly recuperate his forces.

AN EARLY MORNING FIRE.

At 2 o'clock this morning a barn at the corner of Thirty-second street and Griffin avenue, the property of E. C. Smith, was burned. Cause of fire unknown. Loss about $500.

Naturally, he is under medical treatment. Mathieu found his brother in good spirits and buoyed up by the necessity of mustering all his strength for the coming ordeal, and by the hope that at last he will have justice done him. Dreyfus looks back to his existence on Devil's Island, which has left an indelible impression and remains in his memory as a horrible nightmare. Dreyfus looks back to his existence of the past four years with relief. He declares his brain is almost reeling in the face of the mass of documents and explanations of M. Demange and Labori are bringing out regarding the extraordinary machinations of his enemies and the persevering devotion of his friends. Dreyfus is astonished and full of heartfelt gratitude at their sacrifice. This feeling is particularly strong as regards Col. Picquart, whom he hardly remembers, and his story of whose prosecution has profoundly moved him.

WARNING TO TOURISTS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS NIGHT REPORT.] BUTTE (Mont.) July 4.—A special to the Miner from Bozeman, Mont., says that a bicyclist was shot and killed last night between 6 and 7 o'clock in the evening, about two miles northeast of Chestnut. He was attempting to enter the cabin of William Adams, which is close to the Northern Pacific Railway, and had just pried open the shutter to the window when a trapdoor was discharged, and he received the full force of its contents in his left side from which wound he died in about half an hour.

This cabin has been robbed several times, and Adams had taken this means to protect his property from tramps, ceased was probably some tourist, riding through the country, who was too tired to ride to the next town, and so tried to enter the cabin for the night.

Rupture Cured.

My step-son, Louis Barnes, was ruptured on the left side four years. He was examined during that time and treated by several physicians without success. I saw Prof. Pandrey's advertisement and asked three practicing physicians what they thought of him and his treatment. They appeared to know nothing concerning his method of treatment. Notwithstanding this, we visited Prof. Pandrey, 642 South Main street and engaged his services. After six months' treatment, Prof. Pandrey pronounced Louis completely cured. In November, 1898, and then desired me to have him examined by any practicing physician in Los Angeles, in order that I might be satisfied of the good faith of his statements. But I desired to postpone the matter until we could have some assurance that the cure was permanent. I now hold a certificate from one of the best practicing physicians in Los Angeles, dated June 1, 1899, stating that he examined Louis on that day and "found him entirely free from any rupture." He at the same time stated to me that he could not certify that he had been "cured" of rupture, because he could find no evidence that he had ever been ruptured. It affords me great pleasure to recommend Prof. Pandrey to any one suffering from rupture, as I believe he can cure any case he undertakes, if his directions are carefully followed.

THE WORLD'S GREAT ARTISTS.

VII.—REYNOLDS.
(Concluded.)
BY ARTHUR HOEBER.

While copying in the Vatican when in Rome Reynolds caught a severe cold, which settled in his ear, and this occasioned a deafness that clung to him for the remainder of his life. He had to carry ever afterward with him an ear trumpet. Notwithstanding this affliction he mingled freely in society and his house was a rendezvous for the brightest people of the city. Changing his residence several times, he finally located in Leicester Square, 47, where he built a gallery and settled for the remainder of his life. Regularly then, in his prosperity as in his more modest beginnings, Reynolds held strictly to system in his life as in his work. Every day at 10 promptly he entered his painting-room. Here he had waiting for him either a patron or a model, and went at once to work. If by any chance he was disappointed in either he gave himself over to the making of some composition or the drawing of some ar-him, much less observe him at work. Copying pictures owned by the great man, generally old masters, was the means the pupils employed to make progress.

THE SOCIAL SIDE.

In 1768 the Royal Academy was founded and Reynolds naturally was the unanimous choice for the honor of the presidency; the next year the king—it was George II. now, who succeeded to the throne—made the famous painter a knight, and Reynolds added the sir to his name. It has been said that at 4 o'clock each day Sir Joshua gave himself up to his social engagements, and did the best of his work or with a chosen few of his intimates. This coterie numbered such men as Dr. Johnson, Goldsmith, Sheridan, Burke, Fox, Boswell and a host of others, bishops and church dignitaries, and of course, many noblemen, actors and town swells. There had been formed several convivial associations where there were pleasures of a material and an intellectual nature. It was an epoch of hard drinking, and a maid who would not put away his two bottles was thought little fit to associate with gentlemen. The famous literary club was formed in 1764, and the membership was limited to a dozen. There was a Thursday Evening Club, which met at the Star and Garter, the Savoir-faire, the Beefsteak, the Dile-bles, to the society of his comrades in the clubs, and he was always the center of a group of admirers, for he was a brilliant talker, and, what is almost better, a satisfactory listener. There were dinners at Richmond, of splendid minds, brilliant wits and gifted men and women; there were theater parties, with admission to the best dressing rooms and greenrooms for the distinguished president of the Royal Academy and his friends, and there were gaming parties, for play was at its height in those days and everybody indulged, or the more harmless whilst, at which Sir Joshua took a hand. There were the ceremonies of the opening of the Royal Academy each year, when the president accompanied the King on the occasion of his visit, and there were the famous discourses that Sir Joshua delivered before the students at the Royal Academy. All these happenings completely filled the life of the painter, and he was never a moment free from the pressure of his duties. He passed quickly enough to banish any thoughts of matrimony. Artificial as were the times, however, and though in position or dress the great painter made concessions in his pictures to the manners of his day, it was never at the expense of his art, for he gave to all the best of his work, and he worked with great seriousness, and honestly endeavored to truthfully render his sitters.

Sir Joshua died at the age of 71, on February 23, 1792, and was buried in St. Joseph's Cathedral, beside the greatest of English architects, Christopher Wren. Among his pallbearers were three dukes, an earl and several lords. The greatest of the land attended the obsequies. He left a fortune of £100,000, an immense sum for those days. Burke said of him: "Everything turned out fortunately for him, from the moment of his birth to the hour of his death." Such indeed was the fact. No man ever lived a more normal, a healthier or more consistent life. From the cradle to the grave he was true to all his ideals—honest to himself, modest, cheerful, industrious, and as a consequence happy. Looking back with all the advantage of the perspective of the years, it is as difficult to pick a flaw in his character as in his art. He must be accounted a master, and though he is placed below some of the greatest of his brothers in art, he occupies a commanding position that few men have obtained since the world produced painters.

Few Fires, Slight Loss.

There were few fires incident to yesterday's celebration, and the loss was comparatively insignificant.

Late in the afternoon a blaze started from fre crackers on the porch of a house on the corner of Beaudry avenue and Temple street, but was extinguished without loss.

At 10 o'clock p.m., an alarm was sent in from box No. 356, at the corner of Westlake avenue and Sixth street. The department responded and found a small grass fire in Westlake Park, ignited from fre crackers. No damage.

The next alarm was from box No. 164, at the corner of Santee and Twelfth streets, at 8:20 p.m. A barn and out-house on Twelfth street, near Maple avenue, were consumed, the loss being estimated at about $250. The property belonged to Judge Smith of the Superior Court.

At 12:10 o'clock this morning the roof of a shed at No. 503 South Olive street became ignited from a fre cracker, and an alarm of fire was sounded. The flames were easily extinguished with slight loss.

Before the engines that responded to that alarm had returned to their quarters an alarm from box 42, at Seventh and Los Angeles streets, sounded. An unoccupied frame cottage near the corner of Eleventh street and Maple avenue, the property of Mrs. de Ybarro, had become ignited in some unknown manner and before the department could reach the place the house had been damaged to the extent of $350. Two other houses only a few feet distant from the building consumed by the fire originated as Maxse, who he temporarily replaces, but does not supersede.

COVINA.

Boy Crippled for Life by an Exploding Gas Pipe.

COVINA, July 4.—[Regular Correspondence.] Claude Elliott, seventeen-year-old son of J. J. Elliott, had a piece of gas pipe with powder this morning, and after it went off he found himself crippled for life. The thumb and three fingers of the right hand had been blown off, and the boy was frightfully burned, and the lad had a narrow escape from death. He attempted to show the end of the pipe, but he was what he supposed to be an exploded cracker, but it turned out to be loaded.

range of pose for a possible sitter. But he never thought of idling away his time, and on the few occasions when he did not take a brush in his hand of a day he noted the fact in his diary as a most unusual and unfortunate event. He also posed his sitters so that he saw them in a mirror, and thus he painted their reflection. There is no record of any other artist working in this manner continuously.

But if Reynolds was a splendid painter, he made but a poor teacher, and we find only a few pupils from time to time in his studio, for he was most unsuccessful in conveying his knowledge to others. Indeed, it is possible that he always felt the need of a careful preliminary training in the academic, and by this is meant preparatory study in drawing and anatomy from the cast and the live nude model. This of course he lacked. He was never what is called a great draughtsman, as were some of the old masters, and he knew little of anatomy. He obtained his results rather by force of will, by determination to get them at all hazards and by terrific application, and, of course, in time he improved to a tant Society and still others, where there was always a feast of reason and a flow of soul. At many of these meetings the ponderous Dr. Johnson would give forth, whereupon everybody sat and listened. Occasionally some great wit would interrupt, and then would pour forth a torrent of invective, seemingly heavy enough to our ears now and often stupid and windy. But Sir Joshua held his own at these gatherings, and with his ever-present ear trumpet was an interesting figure.

His personal appearance at this time thus described by a contemporary: "In his stature Sir Joshua Reynolds was rather under the middle size, of a florid complexion, roundish, blunt features, and a lively aspect, extremely active, with manners uncommonly polished and agreeable. In conversation his manner was perfectly natural, simple and unassuming. He most heartily enjoyed his profession, in which he was both famous and illustrious, and I agree with Mr. Malone, who says he appeared to him to be the happiest man he had ever known."

great extent, so that these faults were never prominent. His stronghold was his color and a splendid appreciation of the range of character. It is not claimed that he had a large amount of inventiveness, but with the figure before him he was able to get better than his contemporaries the salient points, and in many cases the delicacy and grace of womanhood. He also gave to all he did great distinctness. His most notable achievement was in art. We learn from this interesting painter that Sir Joshua had his pupils in a room far removed from his own studio, which they rarely, if ever, entered, and then only to ask some question. The master came to see them at times, but they knew nothing of his methods or how he mixed his colors, and were dismissed when he had done with showing them the way to paint a hand, an arm, or any part of their work. Furthermore, the master was so occupied with his sitters and his social engagements that for weeks at a time they would never see stantly at his easel, he was not without kindly thoughts for the less fortunate. He has been said to have been penurious, but it is not fair to charge him with this. He supported his sister and naturally made provisions for old age. To Dr. Johnson he was ever generous, and he always kept a ready hand for his friends, such as Sir Joshua, who he was in love with his art and so faithful to it that he would probably have been but an indifferent Benvenuto Cellini. He was, however, fond of the world. Night after night he went to the houses of the fashion-

THE SOUTHERN PHILIPPINES.

A dispatch from Manila, under date of July 2, conveys the information that Prof. J. G. Schurman, president of the U. S. Philippine Commission, had just returned to Manila from a three-week's visit in the southern islands of the archipelago; and that he takes an entirely hopeful view of the conditions prevailing there. He says that "the intelligent and substantial citizens desire an American protectorate;" that "the masses are awaiting the settlement of the war in the island of Luzon before declaring themselves;" and that the inhabitants of the southern islands "are chiefly anxious to be undisturbed."

Mr. Schurman quotes the words of the President of the town of Santo Nicolas, in the island of Cebu, as fairly expressive of the prevailing sentiment among the inhabitants of the southern islands of the Philippine Archipelago. This official said: "We want food, peace, and prosperity. We do not wish to fight. We would be neutral."

If this declaration is a fair expression of the feeling entertained by the inhabitants of the southern islands, it constitutes a decidedly hopeful phase of the Philippine situation. It tends to show that the chief, if not the only opposition which we have to overcome in the island of Luzon, and that when we shall have destroyed the resistance in that island, our task will have been practically completed. This is an encouraging outlook. Beyond a reasonable doubt the Tagalo rebellion in the island of Luzon will be crushed within the next few months—soon after the close of the rainy season. With the restoration of peace and order in Luzon, the complete solution of the Philippine problem will be close at hand, if not actually accomplished. It will then remain only to work out the details of government for the islands. This, although a work of considerable magnitude, will not be difficult of accomplishment, after the question of armed resistance has been satisfactorily disposed of.

The President has wisely decided that the war against the rebellious Tagalos shall be waged vigorously, to a successful conclusion. Gen. Otis is to be given an army large enough to accomplish the desired result in the quickest possible time. This will be not only the wisest, but the most humane course. The sooner the war is ended, the lighter will be the sacrifice of blood and treasure, and the sooner will it be possible to begin the work of reconstruction.

The storm-center is the island of Luzon. When tranquillity shall have been restored there, the rest will be easy. Therefore, let the tranquillizing work of Gen. Otis and his valiant men go forward with all possible dispatch.

For the first time in its history the United States army is to have full-fledged drum-majors to head its bands; but promise is made that their uniforms will not shame the Queen of Sheba nor vie with the aurora borealis in picturesque splendor and magnificence. A drum-major not thus equipped will scarcely fill the bill, for an ungorged individual not carrying a baton that looks as if it weighed a ton will neither add to the gayety of empires nor make melody sound more sweet. If the army is to have these attachments, by all means let them be the real thing, or not at all.

The president of the Chicago University has prohibited the singing of "There! It's a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight." Well, boys, what is the matter with your whistles?

A Manila dispatch says: "Aguinaldo has gone hastily to the front." This indicates clearly that Ag. has got turned round. He never would go in that direction "a-purpose."

A REVOLUTION IN COMMERCE.

The development that has taken place in the export trade of the United States since the close of the war with Spain is truly remarkable. From a material standpoint these results have certainly justified the most sanguine predictions of the most enthusiastic expansionists.

The commercial expansion that has already taken place is, however, but an indication of what may be expected in the near future. The Orient is destined to become a factor of vast importance in the industrial development of the world. There is a population of over 500,000,000, which has, so far, scarcely begun to use the manufactured products of civilized countries. That the United States will obtain a good share of this trade goes without saying. Our chances of competition with European countries are better than many people suppose. In fact, the United States Investor, in a recent article on this subject, shows that no people are so well equipped to take the leading place in the trade with the East as our own.

It may seem a somewhat startling and radical assertion to say that no nation can produce articles for export at a lower cost than the United States, in fact, any can produce at as low a figure, yet this is a statement which the journal referred to makes. It is confirmed, to some extent, by the fact that iron manufactured in the United States is underselling the British product in England itself. At the recent annual meeting of the British Iron Trade Association, the president, Sir John Jenkins, spoke very strongly regarding American competition, assuming it to be beyond question that the American furnaces could produce Bessemer and hematite iron at fully $3 a ton less than it could be produced in England, and Lord Farrer, pronounced free trader, seriously considered the effects of a duty on iron and steel. The feeling evinced on the meeting of the British Iron Trade Association was entirely in accord with views that have been obtaining expression in Great Britain for months past.

If the United States can compete with Great Britain in the iron market at home, how much better may we expect to be able to compete with iron in the Orient.

Turning from iron to the question of cotton manufactures, we find that the quantity of cotton cloths, in yards, exported from the United States to China, has increased from 35,000,000 in 1895 to 172,000,000 in ten months of 1899 (the fiscal year being referred to.) Probably the closing of the fiscal year will see a total of 225,000,000 yards of cotton cloths exported from this country to China, or more than six times the exports of 1895. Referring to the cause of this wonderful increase, the United States Investor says:

"Only one meaning is to be attached to these figures, viz., that the cotton manufacturing industry of the United States is capable of competing successfully in the Orient with that of any other country. In this connection let us recall a statement recently made by the Hon. John Barrett, late United States Minister to Siam. Speaking to a company of Englishmen he remarked that England's trade in the Far East was threatened by American competition, for the reason that the English labor was becoming more expensive than American. That his statement is strictly true as regards cotton manufacturing we know to be a fact. We have had occasion to study very closely the cost of cotton manufacturing in this country and Great Britain. We have examined the standard price lists of labor in the two countries, and are prepared to mathematically demonstrate that the labor cost is on the whole lower here than in England."

We cannot go much into details at this time regarding this particular phase of the situation, but we can illustrate by briefly referring to one department of cotton manufacturing, viz., weaving. The sum total of the matter appears to be, that on plain work the American weaver runs more income, works more hours, gets a little more money at the end of the week, but weaves more yards of cloth for less per yard than the English weaver. On other classes of goods he runs more looms and weaves less cloth per loom, for about the same amount of weekly wages, than the English weaver. On the higher class of fancies the English weaver is decidedly better off than the American, for he runs less looms, receives more per yard, and makes a little more in weekly wages.

It is a question if the delusion which has existed regarding the relative cost of labor in this country and England may not be as great in other lines of manufacturing as it is here. In the one we have just been discussing, as for ourselves, we have long been convinced that labor commands the same remuneration (speaking generally) the world over, the difference in the amount of weekly earnings being due to the greater efficiency of the different operatives. We are convinced that the heavy exports from this country of iron and iron goods and of cotton cloths mark but the beginning of a movement which will eventually include (speaking generally) the whole range of our manufactures.

It is not a very pleasing idea to consider that the rates of wages in American factories may fall as low as, or lower, than rates prevailing in Europe, but it should be remembered, on the other hand, that the purchasing powers of these wages is steadily increasing. In any case, it is useless to fight against the inevitable. There appears to be no doubt that the United States is destined to take a leading position in the manufacturing industry of the world, similar to that which it has for many years held in agricultural products.

The masked robber who entered a Prescot saloon and was clubbed into unconsciousness with his own pistol by a bartender, is living witness to the fact that it is human to err.

HOW THE DAY WAS CELEBRATED.

Columbia's natal day was celebrated throughout the land with enthusiasm as befitting the glorious occasion, yesterday; and even in foreign lands our countrymen who are there exiled for the time being set the stars of glory against the blue of the skies that the birthday of the matchless republic of all the ages might be given proper and becoming celebration. Los Angeles joined in the paean of rejoicing with somewhat less exuberance than usual, because of existing circumstances, but withal there was a great amount of powder burned by Young America and Young America's pa had considerable of a hand in the jubilation, touching off quite as many of the bombs, skyrockets, pin-wheels and Roman candles as did the juveniles. There were appropriate literary exercises at several points in the city, as is shown in our news columns this morning, and the day was made notable at Hazard's Pavilion by the strong and forceful poem by Mrs. Lou V. Chapin—a bit of verse that will compare more than favorably with contributions of like character upon the glorious Fourth in previous years. It was a great day—this milestone on the march of human progress—giving abundant evidence that the spirit of patriotism is alive in the hearts of the American people, that Americans do not forget.

According to advices from Maj.-Gen. Otis, who commands our forces in the Philippines, the hopes of the Tagal rebels is based upon the success of the Democrats at the election next year. Let it be said to the credit of the democracy that, even should they be successful at the polls in 1900—a thing as unlikely as the fall of all the stars—that party is no more likely to recede from the position taken in the Far East than are the Republicans. To be sure, there are "ants" in the Democratic party who would humiliate and embarrass this country to the last extremity, but, thank heaven, the rank and file of all our political parties are American in spirit and they are not at all likely to permit our flag to be torn down and trailed in the dust, nor the nation of Uncle Sam disgraced in the eyes of the world. If the Tagals are resting their faith upon the disloyalty of Democrats they are making the same mistake that they have in the past. The pending success upon the prowess of Aguinaldo.

Efforts to induce enthusiastic prospectors to rush off to distant regions in search of gold have begun to fall somewhat flat, in view of the horrible stories of starvation, misery and even cannibalism that have come to hand. Designing transportation companies and others are now trying a new tack. A correspondent of a Seattle paper at Juneau tells of a wonderful discovery of a copper placer on White River, which is said to be—once more—"the most remarkable mineral discovery in the history of the world." Chunks of copper running 98 per cent. pure are said to have been dug up, in assorted sizes, ranging from an ordinary water bucket to that of a common trunk. There is nothing at all ordinary or common about this story, which we would advise our intelligent readers to "copper" from the start.

The details of the sufferings of the Folger party in Alaska concern, among other things, the wholesale consumption of dog meat. And the eaters didn't get the meat in the ordinary disguise of sausage, either; just took it straight, with snowballs and chunks of glacier on the side. Life in Alaska is not of great variety. Up that way when a prospector isn't dining off his fellow-man he is eating somebody's dog, all of which is, to say the least, not a good advertisement for any country.

Despite Edward Atkinson, enlistments for the army are extremely lively at the Boston recruiting station. If Ned would utter a few more of his choice remarks Massachusetts will probably feel like filling the entire quota demanded for the new army.

Open Campaign Abandoned—Myrtles Hints Thrown Out.
[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]

PITTSBURGH, July 4.—The open strike campaign at Homestead has been abandoned, and emissaries of the amalgamated Association have adopted the plan of making a house-to-house canvass of all the men employed in the plants. It is claimed that secret effort is being made to keep the men at home tomorrow morning and cripple the mills to such an extent as to bring about a complete shutdown.

Among the citizens and business men of Homestead there is a feeling that the movement is a failure, but the leaders maintain a mysterious air, and say it will be well to watch for developments within the next twenty-four hours.

VENUS-LIKE JOBYNA.

May Be Model for Colorado's Girl of Gold for Paris.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]
NEW YORK, July 4.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It is quite probable that the Venus-like form of Miss Jobyna Howland, the actress, will be used as a model for the statue of the girl of gold that Colorado will send to the Paris Exposition. Those who have the matter in hand have practically decided upon her, but there is considerable opposition, as the people of Colorado think that a native daughter should be chosen for the honored position.

Miss Howland is a resident of New York, but was born in California, and is very proud of that State. She appeared last as Flavia in "Rupert of Hentzau."

BROKEN RAIL'S WORK.

WRECK OF A TRAIN EIGHT MILES FROM LEADVILLE.

Denver and Rio Grande Company Used Colorado Midland Track on Account of Washout—Four Cars Jump Off—Nine People Injured.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS DAY REPORT.]
LEADVILLE, (Colo.), July 4.—The second section of Denver and Rio Grande passenger train No. 2 from the west was wrecked today eight miles west of this city. Nine persons were injured, but none of them seriously hurt, so far as known. The injured are:W. C. HAMILTON, Lehi, Ia., left shoulder bruised.
B. F. WYAN, Portland, Or., several fingers broken.
W. E. MORROW, Milan, Mo., left hip bruised.
W. T. MUSKUMUS, Pennsylvania, severe bruises on chest.
MRS. E. R. KINNEY, Denver, body bruised.
J. G. BRENNAN, D. and R. G. conductor, three ribs broken.
G. M. BURKHARDT, mail clerk, head and arm bruised.
THOMAS WALKER, Colorado Midland conductor, injured about head.
WILLIAM COOK, track walker, Leadville, back badly sprained.
The train was running over the Colorado Midland tracks on account of a washout on the Denver and Rio Grande railroad at Shoshone. The wreck occurred near the Buck Tunnel, and was caused, it is said, by a broken rail. The four cars in the middle of the train jumped the track, and would have rolled down the mountain side had not the engine and tender remained on the track. The injured passengers were brought to this city.

A Word to the Kickers.

JOHN GILMORE, Montvale: After having read accounts of the war with Spain and all the controversy which follows, I must confess I am amazed at the ignorance and utter indifference to history shown by some so-called Americans. In the press dispatch contained in Monday's paper it says concerning the Philippines: "The intelligent and substantial citizens declared an American protectorate." This sentiment declares the superiority of the United States over the older forms of government. Outside of a few misguided and vindictive and brainless leaders like Bryan, Aguinaldo, Atkinson and others, the only critics of this country's present policy are a lot of foreign-bred citizens who think they must always oppose the government or the existing administration to whose hands the powers of government are committed. Some of those would-be critics think that as long as they occupy an opposite position their position must be justifiable without any regard to the proper consideration of the subject. Any argument addressed to them is useless. The only thing they need is to throw aside prejudice and read all the facts and circumstances concerning the late war with Spain. The mere fact that those critics, both native and foreign-born, still continue to raise with us, is proof that Uncle Sam's country is colder than any land they could find to dwell in elsewhere. This argument, when rubbed up under the nose of a native or foreign-born critic, invariably proves a stunner.

What They Talked About.

NEW YORK, July 4.—A dispatch to the Herald from Berlin says Prince Bismarck's visit to the Emperor or is eagerly discussed. His emperor says that the Kaiser refused to receive him. The Klotze Journal, which contains the report, says that information, says the attendance was prolonged, that Prince Bismarck refused the Washington embassy, for private reasons, but said he would be willing to accept the London embassy. The truth is that the audience took place behind closed doors, and the Kaiser took the opportunity of hearing Prince Bismarck's opinions on politics in general and especially on the Canal Bill.

The Coptic's Passengers.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 4.—There was no sickness on the steamer Cometa, which arrived from the Orient last night, and her passengers report that the fear of the bubonic plague had abated at Honolulu. The Coptic brought ninety-five persons in the cabins and 130 steerage passengers.

SECRETARY SHEPARD DISCUSSES N.E.A. OUTLOOK.

Everything Points to a Large Attendance of Visitors, Who Will Stay Not Days, but Weeks in Southern California.

Preparations for the School Exhibit in the Spring-street School and the Publishers' Exhibit of Supplies.

Chairman Rohde Announces the Programme for the Meetings of the Physical Training Department and its Public Exhibitions.

Yesterday was quiet in N.E.A. circles, compared with preceding days. There was not a single committee meeting, the business headquarters at No. 437 South Spring street were close and quiet, and the headquarters of the local Executive Committee at the Chamber of Commerce and at the railroad stations were there much activity.

During the day a great many teachers visited the Chamber of Commerce in search of information. All were marveling at the weather, which seemed to them so cool and comfortable as to be scarcely appropriate for the Fourth of July.

The 141 passengers who reached the city on the morning Santa Fe train from the East were delighted at the hospitality with which they were welcomed. They were met at San Bernardino by members of the Fruit Committee, who accompanied them to Los Angeles, distributing fruit and information, and telling them of the preparations made for their entertainment.

Two Santa Fe sections, carrying sixty-five and sixty-four passengers respectively, due here at 7:30 and 8:25 o'clock a.m. this morning, will be met at San Bernardino by Arthur Brown and B. W. Wright, F. W. Stein, Jr., and Elmo Reavis went to Lancaster last night, and will meet a Southern Pacific party from there this evening. It is reported that the Santa Fe will bring twenty trainloads of people into Los Angeles Friday and Saturday.

TWENTY THOUSAND.

Dr. Irwin Shepard, secretary of the N.E.A., believes that the visitors will be fully as numerous as had been hoped. His estimates are based on the official correspondence conducted with the State managers and with railroad men in advance of the convention. He declares that fully 10,000 people will be in Los Angeles from points east of the Missouri River.

When the N.E.A. held its national convention in San Francisco eleven years ago, California furnished 400 members, Los Angeles 100, and the rest of the country 1000, and it is probable that that number will be exceeded. All the country west of the Missouri, excluding California, is left to draw from for 5000 persons necessary to swell the number of visitors to 20,000.

"No one need feel disappointed that greater crowds will not arrive," said Dr. Shepard yesterday. "School workers find it necessary to close up the business of the year before the start of the summer holidays. The teachers need time, besides, to prepare for departure. I think that from Friday on there will be thick woods and a steady stream of visitors to the teachers. The visitors will not come merely for one week. Many will stay at least a month, and I have information which leads me to believe that many will remain until the end of August or the early part of September. The eastern agencies for personally-conducted parties report a dearth of business. This is because people don't want to tie themselves closely to itineraries, but choose to make up their own parties, and to go and come at their pleasure, and to stay in one place as long as they like."

EDUCATIONAL EXHIBIT.

The national educational exhibit in the Spring-street school is rapidly being put into shape. Every day material is arriving for the exhibit, and the members of the exhibit committee, including all the members of Mrs. C. P. Bradfield's Art Exhibit Committee, are requested to report at the Spring-street school at 10 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Their aid will be required for most of the remainder of the week putting the exhibits in place and furnishing the display for the teachers.

Superintendent J. A. Foshey and the Board of Education feel a great deal of pride in what has been accomplished by the school children of Los Angeles in preparing for the school exhibit. During the last few weeks of the school year all the children spent considerable time preparing articles for the exhibit. Papers were written, illustrated, and decorated by the pupils; sets of examination papers were prepared, the story class got together and made models; the drawing pupils furnished the work they have recently done, and exhibits in modeling, science work, and geography were prepared.

One notable production is a book on Longfellow's "Evangeline" prepared by Miss Belle Cooper's eighth grade class. Each pupil took some particular phase of the poem as the subject for an essay or illustration, and the completed results were bound together in a book, artistically covered with yellow leather. The book has been warmly praised by everyone who has seen it. The book includes character-studies of the people of the poem, descriptions of the scenes, extracts of the different portions of the plot, and comment on literary and historical features of the poem. The book is illustrated by choice pictures cut from magazines. After being pasted on the leaves the pictures were surrounded with pen and ink borders drawn with such neatness that the pictures seem printed upon the leaves themselves. There are a number of full-page illustrations, borders, and decorations. The book was written by members of the class, who have shown exceptional cleverness in artistic use of the pen. The essays are all written in vertical penmanship and are clear and easy to read as print. This commentary on "Evangeline" has been shown by Superintendent Foshey to a great many teachers and visitors at his office, and will now be placed on exhibition in the Spring-street school. The national exhibit of publishers of school books at Nos. 32 and 34 South Main street will include large displays by a number of firms. Two store-rooms have been thrown into one by a great many teachers and visitors at his office, and will now be placed on exhibition in the Spring-street school. The exhibit of publishers of school books at Nos. 32 and 34 South Main street will include large displays by a number of firms. Two store-rooms have been thrown into one by a great many teachers and visitors at his office, and will now be placed on exhibition in the Spring-street school.

COMMITTEE WORK.

An important meeting of the Excursion Committee, W. B. French, chairman, will be held at the Chamber of Commerce at 10 a. m. today. The work of the Teachers' Fruit Committee for the remainder of the convention period has been mapped out by Chairman Luther G. Brown. The following chairmen of sub-committees were appointed yesterday. They will appoint assistants to accompany them to outside points to meet incoming visitors with fruit and facts:

E. P. Rowell, Will L. Frew, George H. Prindle, Milton Carlson, B. W. Reed, Mrs. Hattie Hollingsworth, Charles E. Putnam, Dr. W. W. Plummer, F. F. W. Stein, Jr., C. E. Latham, W. W. Tritt, Edward Dolland, Arthur C. Brown, J. F. Yoder, Frank A. Bouelle, J. M. McPherson, G. H. Chilcote.

The local Reception Committee has appointed the following named for similar work in meeting trains: Messrs. G. G. Johnson, M. T. Whitaker, F. M. Smith, H. C. Fryman, A. N. Davidson, Fowler, Colwell, B. F. Gardner, M. M. Davidson, H. C. Lichtenberger, A. W. Skinner.

The Southern Pacific Excursion Department yesterday decorated a booth in the general freight quarters. Miss Mary F. Shaeffer is in charge.

DECORATING THE CITY.

The merchants along the principal business streets have all signified their intention of decorating their stores in honor of the N.E.A., and many elaborate displays are being carried out by the local Executive Committee. The decorations placed in Hazard's Pavilion for the Fourth of July and for the High School commencement will also be retained, and will be supplemented by more flags, festsia colors and Chinese fans, lanterns and umbrellas.

The following circular letter signed by Chairman F. Q. Story of the local N.E.A. Committee, was sent to downtown business houses yesterday:

"The local Executive Committee of the N.E.A. desire to thank you for your ready compliance with their request to decorate and illuminate your premises in honor of and in aid of the N.E.A. Convention. Pardon us for suggesting that owing to the large number who have asked to decorate their stores, it is absolutely necessary, where it has not been done, to take up the work at once, as otherwise many will find it impossible to do so in technical or skilled labor for this purpose."

ATAVISM AMONG ANIMALS.

Whence Horses Drive Swiftness and Endurance.

[Philadelphia Press:] Dr. Louis Robinson, an English zoologist, has just given to the world an account of his investigations as to the origin of the habits and mode of life of certain animals, and the conclusion to which he has arrived is that all which he seems to arrive at is that the phenomena are due to atavism, or to ground of atavism. Thus he claims that the horse of our day derives his swiftness and power of endurance from the fact that his ancestors in former days were obliged to flee from, and consequently to defend themselves against, their great enemies, the wolves. In like manner he claims that the reason why the horse shies is because his ancestors were forced to do so by the attacks of the wolf. He claims that the reason why the horse rears and plunges is because only by pursuing such tactics could his ancestors shake off the animals who had leaped upon their backs.

Sheep, when frightened immediately rush off to the bushes, where they can reach the ground. The reason, says Dr. Robinson, is because all sheep originally inhabited mountainous districts. And this, he claims, is the reason why the sheep shies, and that the reason why the sheep rears and plunges is because only by pursuing such tactics could his ancestors shake off the animals who had leaped upon their backs.

Pigs have also engaged Dr. Robinson's attention. He was puzzled for a good while as to the cause of the grunting, but not he thinks he has discovered the real reason. The pigs of today, he says, evidently grunt because their ancestors made a habit of making this sound could they keep track of each other and guard themselves against going astray from the common herd. Commenting on the latter explanation, a scientist suggests that Dr. Robinson might now do well to spend some time in trying to find out why the horse neighs and why the dog barks.

THE SIREN'S SONG.

Oh, listen, my child, to the warning I give, Remember, remember, as long as you live, Beware of the siren's song so soft and sweet, That the siren is singing upon the wild deep. I stopped once to listen to that beautiful song.

Though warned by the ruin of a numberless siren, I followed the siren's song through the sunlight of morn.

And watched for the siren's lithe, magical form. I followed the siren's song through the heat of the day.

Followed, yet followed, when the sunset was gray. Through night and storm drawn by that wonderful charm.

I sailed to the shores by the lights of alarm. Only darkness and space, and the wild, raging sea. Only sadness and misery were left then for me.

The music had ceased, and the siren had gone. Leaving only a wreck that was charmed by a song.

The wreck was rebuilt, but often when sailing, So near that ambition's port lay in pleading, There came on the wind that sweet, haunting note.

And, pausing to listen, unheeded the boat Drifted out on the till the harbor is past.

Maybe never within it the anchor is cast. Or when in the night, though the waves rising high.

I pause at my duty to listen and die. What is this music, so like that from above? The name of this music, my child, it is Love.

VENTURA COUNTY.

Fourth Celebrated at Huemene.

VENTURA, July 4.—[Regular Correspondence.] The Fourth of July was gloriously celebrated by the people of this county in Huemene. The celebration was commenced at 11 o'clock in the morning by the reading of the Declaration of Independence by Fergus L. Fairbanks, which was followed by a patriotic oration by Judge R. T. Williams. The school children sang a patriotic song, and the celebration was continued by a picnic on the beach. There was dancing in the warehouse during the afternoon, and sports, a pig race, a giraffe running race, an egg race, a potato race, a sack race, a fat man's race, a boat race and a swimming race. A grand pig was turned loose for the small boy to catch. There was also a tug-of-war. A display of fireworks was given at the evening. The day's celebration was concluded with a grand ball. A special train was run from Huemene to Ventura, and the celebration at Huemene was made by stage. The Ojai Valley and Huemene bonds furnished the music for the celebration.

TRUSTEES MEET.

The Town Trustees met in regular session at the Town Hall last night, but little business was transacted. Two municipal improvement bonds of $50 each, and $50 each, were ordered sold at William C. Jones & Co., at 10 a. m. The money will be used in the extension of the main sewer line in the Front-street. The work of the caneberry to make a section.

ALL ALONG THE LINE.

"Hung be the heavens in black!" The Santa Barbara Supervisors have enacted a law that pheasants, grouse and wild turkey shall not be shot at any time, and oh horrors! that clause shall not be shot, speared, trapped, or otherwise maltreated for three years. Santa Barbara without clams! Perish the thought!

Fullerton has several good oil wells, a very good crop of grapes, and a bang-up Fourth of July celebration in view. It is self-evident that those seeking wide-awake communities in which to invest will be sure to call upon the Fullerton people. More pretentious places could learn a good lesson from progressive Fullerton.

A recently returned pilgrim from San Francisco said: "Yes, it is a singular thing to me that the authorities there place ten policemen to guard the unfortunate passengers of the Y.M.C.A. train, and yet permit any number of floods of inebriated to parade the downtown districts smoking skunk cabbage cigars, the fumes from which are far more deadly than bubonic or any other plague." This has an apt application to Los Angeles and especially to Pasadena.

At Fullerton, yesterday, one Gonzales, a Mexican, spit on the American flag, and was promptly knocked down and rolled in the mud to take the contempt out of him. He was likewise kicked so hard that he felt of the top of his head to learn if his spinal protruded. Love and reverence are unknown to some natures, and such abnormal lives can only be ruled by fear. The error that love can sway such brutes is responsible for a great percentage of the devilry of the age.

The Times San Diego correspondence says: "Heintzelman Post has extended to the Confederate veterans the use of G.A.R. Hall on Sixth Street." "In the light of the years that are fading 'No nobler battle was won.' In this auspicious season, when beauty and brilliancy of intellect throng our coast cities, what a beautiful object lesson to take the impenetrable and perennial pall of grief with which some people down that way insure their happier selves, must give way before the blessedness of such a noble action, and God and angels and men be permitted to record an universal approbation. The ghosts of Heintzelman, Hooker and Kearney in blue, and Lee, Jackson and A. P. Hill in gray, if they can revisit this earth must be made happier by such a loving, patriotic act. Heintzelman Post you're it."

MAINE PEOPLE CELEBRATE.

Pine Tree State Association Picnic at Verdugo Park.

Far away Maine is represented in this city and vicinity by several hundred of her former citizens. For years they have maintained an organization known as the Pine Tree State Association. Every year this organization holds a picnic and its celebration of the Fourth is invariably made one of the association's greatest efforts of the year. This year their picnic was held at Verdugo Park, July 300 for residents. The exercises were held in the afternoon and continuing there all day. The exercises were held in the afternoon. They consisted of patriotic songs, short speeches and an oration delivered by Arthur W. Kinney, United States Receiver of Public Money. After his address a dinner was served under the trees. After the dinner those present amused themselves in their own way, the afternoon being devoted to sports, games and other amusements characteristic of such occasions.

Engine Off the Track.

The derailing of the engine at the Southern Pacific crossing at Los Nietos late yesterday afternoon delayed the arrival in Los Angeles of the Santa Fe train from San Diego about fifteen minutes. The locomotive was turned off its engine left the rails. It was soon gotten onto the track again and the train proceeded.

CRIMES AND CASUALTIES

WORK OF THE POLICE ON THE FOURTH OF JULY.

Only a Few Arrests for Misdemeanors, but Plenty of Receiving Hospital Cases—Deadly Guns and Firecrackers Get in Their Work.

The Fourth of July was a quiet day in police circles. A large force of officers was held in reserve at the station all day for service in case of emergency, but there was no call for them. Aside from the arrest of a few drunks and a few individuals for discharging firearms, there were no persons taken into custody on criminal charges. There were more calls upon the police surgeon than upon any other member of the department.

Dr. Ralph Hagan, who had been in San Francisco on a ten-days' leave of absence to hear a course of lectures on surgery, by Dr. Nicholas Senn of Rush Medical College, Chicago, returned home yesterday morning in time to give personal attention to the victims of the Fourth of July celebration who crowded the Receiving Hospital.

The most prominent victim of the Fourth of July festivities was John H. Norton, a well-known capitalist and mining man, of No. 834 West Twenty-eighth street, who had his right hand badly mangled by a giant bomb Monday night. Mr. Norton was setting off some fireworks for the entertainment of his family when it exploded in his hand, inflicting a terrible wound. Drs. Lasher and Bullard, who were called, found amputation of the right hand necessary.

Joseph J. Lassalet, driver for the Palace Market, while driving along Portland avenue near Adams street, yesterday noon, felt a sting under his arm, and he called at the Receiving Hospital to have his wound dressed. Dr. Hagan found imbedded in the skin of the neck a link of a copper watch chain which some boy had doubtless fired from a toy cannon, or shotgun, although Lassalet did not observe the shooter. Lassalet lives at No. 910 Summit avenue, Boyle Heights. His wound, though painful, is not of a serious nature.

Harry Hager, a boy living at No. 808 San Pedro street, was treated at the Receiving Hospital for a wound inflicted in the palm of the left hand by a blank cartridge exploded in a toy pistol.

Fred Kolbard, a twelve-year-old boy living at No. 125 Los Angeles street, was treated at the Receiving Hospital for a wound in the same place, and inflicted in identical the same manner as the injury of young Hager.

Fred Czarke, the eight-year-old son of a saloon-keeper, was treated by a man named Bennett several years ago, had his hands and face badly burned and lacerated by an exploding bomb. He was treated at the Receiving Hospital, and it may yet be necessary to amputate several of his fingers.

Eugene Flood, aged 11, residing at No. 225 Franklin street, was sent to the Receiving Hospital to have a splinter about an inch and a half in length, extracted from one of his legs.

Gaston Rawlin of No. 810 South Los Angeles street was treated at the Receiving Hospital for a superficial laceration in his right hand, due to coming in contact with a sharp piece of glass.

Dick Wood, a piano-player and singer in a saloon at No. 213 East Main street, slipped on a banana peel yesterday afternoon, and broke a bone in his right ankle. Drs. Hagan and Stinchfield reduced the fracture in the Receiving Hospital.

Albert Deleco, a veteran from the Soldiers' Home, fell in a faint on the sidewalk while intoxicated, and was sent to the Receiving Hospital, by Officer Berg, to sober up.

Lou Houston, E. Smith and Eugene Rochet were arrested during the day for discharging firearms in the streets. They were allowed to go on their own recognizance.

The awning of N. B. Blackstone's dry goods store, at No. 249 South Spring street, was ignited by an exploding firecracker yesterday morning. Officer Redfern procured a ladder, climbing up and cut out the burning cloth with his pocket knife, thus averting the necessity of calling out the fire department.

BENEFICIAL SOCIETY PICNIC.

Bishop Montgomery Addresses the Catholics at Sycamore Grove.

The Catholic Beneficial Society gave a Fourth of July picnic at Sycamore Grove yesterday, and it was attended by a large crowd of persons. Attorney Joseph Scott delivered an address of welcome to the crowd, and complimented its members on their presence. He spoke of the ideal place for such a gathering, and said that he was glad to see that prejudices born of the past reputation of Sycamore Grove, had not kept away anyone from the picnic. The Declaration of Independence was read by Elmer Booth, a student of St. Vincent's College, and it was followed by an address, on American citizenship by Bishop Montgomery. The address dealt at considerable length with the duties and responsibilities of citizens of the United States, and his delivery was frequently greeted with applause. Following the patriotic exercises the picnicers indulged in various games and amusements.

We Celebrated

Yesterday; we did the small boy act, and exploded Fire

Crackers 'most all day, and don't you know we enjoyed it as much as of yore. We felt like saying to the youngsters: "Boys, these are the happiest days of all, and you don't realize it!" It recalled to us the story of a great merchant prince who in talking to an immense audience of boys, said: "Boys, look around you; see the verdant valleys—the cattle on a thousand hills—who owns all these?" "Our fathers," answered the boys in one voice. "Thirty years hence where will your fathers be?" "Dead," answered the boys. "And who will own the lands then?" "Us boys," they answered. "Did you ever notice in passing down the street the many drunken men you meet?" "Yes," answered the boys. "Twenty years hence where will those drunkards be?" "Dead," said the boys. "And who will be the drunkards then?" "Us boys," chimed the audience. Twenty years from today the boys who set off firecrackers yesterday will be failures or successes. The only way to reach success is to do as the postage stamp does—stick to one thing till you get there. Remember, keeping everlastingly at it brings success. Another essential thing is economy. We are teaching the good people of Los Angeles a lesson in economy every day at our store.

assist the downtrodden and oppressed. "Our national life has been filled with new and momentous responsibilities and problems. We will meet them and work them successfully, but we have always worked out such problems in the past. We will play our part in the world's affairs. Let us face the future, not without concern, but with a clear vision of the path ahead. Let us fear, let us enter upon the conflicts with courage, with strong arms and brave hearts, toiling on to well-won success. Let us keep our nation's conscience clear and our national judgment will be clear.

"Who can doubt that Old Glory will come out of all combats and struggles triumphantly, its stars the brighter for victory, its white stripes the purer for its accomplished mission and enforced authority. Its red stripes the purer for the blood of its sons, shed in the cause of civilization and progress—of just government and equal rights before the law of all men."

"VICAYCA" DESTROYED.

"American Boy" Wins the Battle of Westlake Park.

The "American Boy" destroyed the "Vicayca" last night at Westlake Park. This closing event of the Fourth of July celebration was not fair play at all, for the Spanish vessel was small enough to have served as a captain's gig for its bullying adversary.

The wretched little craft was further embarrassed—a crowing touch of verisimilitude—by a marked inferiority in ammunition and ordnance.

Everyone felt sorry for the under dog in the fight, and when the "Vicayca" landed a red-hot cannon-ball full on the upper deck of the "American Boy," a shout of admiration for the bravery of the Spanish dons went up all around the lake. That was the only shot which seemed to have seemed to hit anything but the sky or water. The "Vicayca's" troubles ended with a terrific explosion, followed by a towering column of smoke and dense smoke from the wreckage of the sinking craft. The naval board of inquiry has not yet decided whether the explosion was due to a defective "American Boy," spontaneous combustion, or the treachery of one of her crew, which thus closed the battle.

The "American Boy" celebrated the victory by a gorgeous display of signal rockets and red fire, belched flame from all its Quaker cannon, with the evident intention of wiping up the foot of the lake with any other Spanish warships that might be in range or hidden in neighboring coves, and the band played "Here! Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

Few naval battles have so many spectators or such delighted ones as rejoiced over last night's victory. The shores of the lake were moving masses of people, pouring along the crowded pathways, eddying across the drives and esplanades, inundating the lawns and flower beds, and spouting small boys to the tops of pleasure-houses and the swaying limbs of trees. All the world was abroad. There was nothing to be seen but people elsewhere, there had been no morning parade to sate the crowds with jubilation, so the city poured thousands upon thousands into Westlake Park to enjoy the most unique and most attractive of the day's events.

The merry-makers could enjoy the delight of being in the crowd, not only of the day, but of the night, and the only illumination was from an occasional electric light, or the momentary glow of a rocket, or a fire. A searchlight shot here and there, bringing a little knot of people into sudden view, and then darting off to reveal a canoe gliding across the lake. Swarms of children were throwing firecrackers under people's feet or out into the lake, where they exploded with uncanny gurgles, but whoever wanted quiet could take shelter under the thick shadow of the trees, and lie there on the soft grass.

The night was balmy and still, the odor of flowering plants, the occasional whiffs of gunpowder-filled air, the sound of music floated across the water, and there was the changing spectacle of fireworks and colored lights, reflected in tremulous gleams across the lake. The continual buzz of voices, all about the lake, rose into a long-drawn "Ah" every time an exploding bomb scattered a shower of stars across the sky. Everyone seemed content with this sort of a Fourth of July.

For two hours before the "battle" began the crowds wandered about the park, listening to the music of the bands, one of which was stationed at the "American Boy" and the other on the top of the boathouse, and watching the target practice with which the blue jacks were preparing for the coming conflict. Every boat the park possesses, from canoe to raft, was on the water, carrying sightseers out to inspect the warships, to cruise about the winding shore, and to listen to the music, softened by distance. A ship passed about the lake, scattering tiny fire rafts over the water, which lighted up the lake with brilliant color. The pleasure craft were cleared away from the battle ground, the peaceful, non-combatant band was disembarked, and all was ready for the unequal struggle to begin.

THE "NAVAL BATTLE."

At a little before 10 o'clock the United States battleship "American Boy" sighted the Spanish monitor "Vicayca," which was rapidly approaching off the port bow and in a little while the decks were cleared for action. The searchlights upon the upper deck were trained upon the enemy and the movements of the foreign imitation of the "Yankee cheese-box" closely watched. Admiral Henry T. Haas, dressed in full regulation uniform, stood upon the bridge, and, speaking trumpet in hand, directed the movements of the battleship toward the approaching foe.

The night was as clear as a bell and the two ships rushed to combat under a full head of steam, churning the water into foam with the rapid revolutions of their twin-screw propellers, they presented an inspiring sight. From the poop of the "American Boy" the stars and stripes waved gallantly in the breeze, while the "Vicayca," arrayed in the dark panoply of war, showed no colors.

At three minutes past 10 o'clock the electric range finder on the forward deck of the "American Boy" reported the enemy within firing distance, and Capt. F. J. Cressy, the Spanish vessel's commander, ordered the men to the guns. Despite the hurried action, perfect order prevailed on board, and in a few minutes everything was ready for the engagement. The American ship opened the battle with a shell from the forward 12-inch gun on the port side, which fell in close proximity to the Spanish warship, and in exploding threw a vast column of water upon the low deck of the "Vicayca." Another shell from the same gun, which was under the direction of Gunner J. J. Gosper, fell with telling effect upon the top of the enemy's revolving turret.

Owing to the terrific rate of speed at which the ships were traveling, they were not long in closing in, and soon the second battery on the port side, consisting of four eight-inch guns, was under command of Lieut. George B. Beebe, were able to pour a terrific and accurate fire upon the approaching ship. All this time the Spanish ship had kept silent, trusting to her small size, and waiting for a chance at close range; but now, as the admiral ordered the ship veered to windward and the captain the starboard battery, under command of Gunner W. H. Workman, into play, the guns of the monitor made reply, and a fierce and terrible protean display began.

The deafening roar of the big cannon, punctuated with the boom of ten-pounders and the continuous crack of the machine guns, created a deafening din. Nearly all the shots of the Spanish ship fell short or else, shrieking on their mission of death, passed far above the masthead and fell with a mighty splash into the bosom of the deep. But for the poor aim of the Spanish, the carnage would have been something awful, for because of the adaptation of the Yankee invention the enemy proved a sturdy foe.

Soon it was observed by the admiral through his sea glasses that something was wrong with the monitor, and it was not long before the white flag was run up and the crew of the "Vicayca" were seen to take to the boats. In a short while the Spanish vessel was seen to be on fire, and the turret, the doomed vessel, burned brightly for a while and then, with an awe-inspiring roar, and enveloped in dense columns of smoke, the pride of the Spanish navy shot into the air. The "American Boy" sent out boats to rescue as many as possible of the struggling Spaniards, but the pride of the lake were moving masses of people, pouring along the crowded pathways, eddying across the drives and esplanades, inundating the lawns and flower beds, and spouting small boys to the tops of pleasure-houses and the swaying limbs of trees. All the world was abroad. There was nothing to be seen but people elsewhere, there had been no morning parade to sate the crowds with jubilation, so the city poured thousands upon thousands into Westlake Park to enjoy the most unique and most attractive of the day's events.

EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

The Executive Committee which made yesterday's celebration the unequalled success everyone declared it consisted of the following-named members: Mayor George T. Haas, president; George B. Beebe, secretary; W. S. Daubenspeck, treasurer; Capt. F. J. Cressy, chairman of the program; former Mayor George T. Haas, chairman of the decorations; former Mayor W. H. Workman, chairman of the finance committee; Col. George A. Allen, chairman of the music committee; John A. West, chairman of the committee on parks; Dr. R. W. Miller, chairman of the committee on the Third Regiment and Seventh Regiment bands furnished music at the bandstand and on the ship in the lake respectively.

ORANGE COUNTY.

Santa Ana Preparing to Entertain a Thousand Teachers.

SANTA ANA, July 4.—[Regular Correspondence.] Santa Ana will have the largest crowd of eastern visitors in its history on July 17, the occasion of the N.E. excursion from Los Angeles. The committee recently appointed by the Chamber of Commerce are busy arranging the details for the entertainment of the day. The small boats and carriages will be furnished those desiring to take a portion of the Santa Ana Valley immediately after the arrival of the special train from the city. En route the visitors will be invited to alight and pick oranges from the trees, and barrels of lemonade will be stationed along the roadside, presided over by a coterie of young women. A trip to Newport Beach is being planned for the afternoon. It is expected that fully one thousand visitors will be in the city on the date of the excursion.

THE FOURTH.

The business houses in this city closed their doors about 9 o'clock this morning, many of the people going to the coast or mountains for the day. The small boy was much in evidence during the day, and in the evening the entire population turned out, burning up hundreds of dollars worth of fireworks. Many very pretty private displays of fireworks were made in Santa Ana and vicinity. At the home of James Irvine, on the San Joaquin ranch, several hundred invited friends witnessed a beautiful pyrotechnic display, after which there was dancing until 3 a.m. Guests were present from Santa Ana, Tustin, Orange, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

JOHANNESBURG'S FOURTH.

If the Programme Was Carried Out It Was a "Corker."

If the mining camp of Johannesburg, out on the burning sands of the great Mojave Desert, did not have the biggest Fourth in its history yesterday, it was only because the programme for the occasion was not carried out. If it was faithfully rendered, the celebration was a "corker," and the participants certainly have reason to feel proud. Here is the grandiloquent bill gotten out by the Johannesburg people as an advertisement of their Fourth of July doings:

SANTA CATALINA ISLAND.

Strange Creatures of the Deep for the Aquarium.

AVAILON (Catalina Island) July 4.—[Regular Correspondence.] The aquarium of the zoological station received an interesting addition today in the shape of a lot of wonderful creatures dredged in water 500 feet deep off Avalon. The haul was made with a dredge nearly twenty feet long and 180 feet of rope were required. The haul was witnessed by about thirty teachers and others. When the big net came in many strange things were found. There were gigantic teredos, with their beautiful lamp shells or terebratulid corals, strange crabs covered with weeds, long, slender corals, others with single polyps; sea cucumbers, two feet in length, with gorgeous red breathing organs, sea urchins, phosphorescent worms, and a fine specimen of the sea pen, one of the most remarkable of all the light givers. The most interesting catch was two specimens of the rare rabbit fish, whose eyes blaze like lamps, and one of which has what is supposed to be a luminous organ on its head. Fifty or more little surf fishes were born in the aquarium yesterday. The fishes being one of the interesting forms whose young are born alive. The aquarium was opened for the educational value of the movement that will attract the attention of students all over the world.

THE LONE STAR STATE.

Interest Unabated in Rich Case—Important to Mexico.

EL PASO (Tex.), July 2.—[Regular Correspondence.] Interest in the case of Mrs. Rich, who is wanted by the Mexican authorities for the murder of her husband in Juarez, some time ago, continues unabated. The hearing before United States Commissioner Sexton closed at the Federal Court-house at El Paso on Friday, and he took the case under advisement. It is confidently expected that the decision will be in favor of the extradition of the woman. The Mexican authorities have pressed the case with much energy, as they are anxious to see the new extradition treaty to the utmost. The treaty is of much importance to Mexico, and may, or may not enable that country to punish many offenders against her laws, who have hitherto taken refuge in this country.

All along the Mexican border, on the American side, are a great many refugees from Mexico. It has been stated on good authority that one-third of the 10,000 population with which Laredo, Tex., is credited are fugitives from justice in Mexico. These people constitute, as a general rule, a very undesirable, if not a dangerous class, and their increase is not desired by the people of the American side. They are usually of a desperate—oftentimes of a roving disposition, and are ready for almost any sort of undertaking, however hazardous, and are indifferent to the consequences. One reason why they settle on the border is to enable them to commit with impunity, crimes against Mexico. Many of them would be shot at sight, if captured on Mexican soil. It was from this class of people that trouble was expected on the border during the late war with Spain, and only the strong government and aggressive policy of President Diaz of Mexico prevented something serious in this direction. As to the right of this class of men to gain citizenship in the United States, when their only object in securing such privilege is to enable them to use the same in making trouble for Mexico and claim the protection of this country in case of such trouble with Mexico, is very doubtful.

Acting under orders from the State Department, American Consuls on the Mexican border are now required to issue certificates to passengers entering this country from Mexico that they have not, within ten days prior to such entry, been at Vera Cruz or other districts where yellow fever prevails, and that all baggage coming from the infected districts has been disinfected.

This section of the country, like many others in the tropic regions, is suffering from its failure to provide proper storage for water in due season. Water is the greatest source of natural wealth here, and it is unfortunate that there are no means to conserve this source of power. A year ago the Rio Grande was roaring and raging and inundating the country in this section, and it is probable that $1,000,000 was lost through failure to conserve sufficient water to irrigate the arable lands. If a sufficient storage reservoir could be erected in the Rio Grande, the vast areas of land along the river that are now unproductive could become like a garden spot rich with grain, fruits and flowers.

Chili Con Carne and Firecrackers. Ygnacio Lugo, a Mexican laborer who lives on Buena Vista street, went to the Police Station at 1 o'clock this morning and wanted a couple of men arrested for maltreating him. He was told to call on Deputy District Attorney Chambers this morning at 9 o'clock and swear to a complaint against his assailants. Lugo's tale of woe was to the effect that while regaling himself with chili con carne at a tamale stand near the Fleo House, two men attached a bunch of firecrackers to his coat and set them off. He objected to being placed in the same class as a dog with a tin end tied to its tail, and in the fracas which followed he came out second best.

LEAGUE GAMES.

Results at Fiesta Park and San Bernardino.

Poor fielding, base running and batting on the part of the "Merchants" baseball team lost them the game yesterday at Fiesta Park to the Los Angeles team. Both teams were considerably weakened by the absence of some of their best men. The Los Angeles team fattened their batting average at the expense of Robinson, the new pitcher of the Merchants. Adams made a record for this league, being at bat five times and making five base hits. The game was slow and uninteresting all through. There were no features outside of E. Moore's fine fielding and hard hitting, and a fast one-hand stop and throw by Smiley. About 600 people witnessed the game, among whom were quite a number of women. The Merchants started out with a rush, and scored four runs in the first two innings, touching Tripp up for seven hits, when he settled down and only allowed them four more hits in the last seven innings and only one tally.

The Los Angeles players batted Robinson's curves all over the field throughout the game, being assisted by passes to first. Weed made the first error he has made in four games at short. The score was as follows:
